Water

There is no open market in which to compare water rates and charges in England and Wales, although Scotland has moved to a more open market. Many companies simply accept their water bills are correct, but they could be missing out on savings.

Analysis

This could not be simpler, by providing CUB UK water billing data we can make an initial review of potential overcharges. Even if your water supplier has recently “re-banded” your site or already given you a rebate for overcharges, there may be scope for more savings to be made.

By sending copies of your latest bills including any drainage/effluent charges we will analyse the information and be able to tell if you are being overcharged.

Site Visit

Following the initial analysis there may be a requirement to visit your site if this is needed we will liaise with you to ensure this is done promptly and with minimum disruption.

Over Charge Recovery

The most time consuming phase of obtaining water savings is in the communication with the water supplier. Our specialists have the knowledge and experience to ensure overcharges are paid back as promptly as possible.

Costs

There is no charge for any initial enquiries; if there is no rebate due our service is free of charge. If our investigation reveals that your charges are incorrect we will agree with you a share of savings scheme which covers savings for only the first two years.
